Council to Protest Tax Collection Bill

Resolution Against Change to be Made by County Legislators

NAME T. W. MERKLE COP

Borough Council unanimously went on record Wednesday night at a special meeting against any change in the present method of collecting taxes in Narberth.

The action amounts to a protest against the so-called Centralization Bill, which would provide one tax collector for the county.

The resolution, introduced by Clarence Kaerber, borough finance chairman, begins: "Resolved, That it is the sense of this Council, that there should be no change in the present method of collecting taxes within this Borough, which would remove from the Borough of Narberth the right to elect its own Tax Collector."

A letter to this effect will be mailed to Senator Theodore Lane Bean, Representative Lamber Cadwalader and the other county legislators. It is understood that the Narberth School Board will be asked to take a similar action at its meeting tonight.

The present tax collector for the borough and the school district is E. P. Dold.

On recommendation of its Public Safety Committee, William H. Durbin, chairman, Council nominated three men for the post of an additional patrolman in Narberth.

These three men were selected for indorsement from among ten applicants interviewed by the Public Safety Committee.

Thomas W. Merkle was appointed patrolman by the Lower Merion Commissioners later Wednesday evening. On passing the physical examination and completing the training course at the Hershey Police School he will be assigned to Narberth. He was first choice of the borough committee.

It was also announced that the new Chevrolet police car is now in service, with radio and siren attached.

That Narberth is becoming lukewarm in its enthusiasm for the proposed Rockland avenue bridge project was indicated in a discussion among the solons. Previously Council approved an expenditure not to exceed $500 as its share of the improvement. Since then plans have been revised, the Merion Civic Association has filed a bill of complaint with the Public Service Commission to get action in the matter and the borough's share of the cost promises to be $1000, possibly more. Although the owner of the one Narberth property affected, Joseph Russell, Jr., is said to be willing to give the necessary deed of dedication for an approach to the northwest corner of the bridge in return for borough-paid sidewalks and curbing, it is held that the improvement would be of negligible benefit to Narberth residents.

Scout Leaders Tell P.T.A. of Citizenship

40th Anniversary of Organization Observed at Meeting

BOYS PRESENT PAGEANT

The Narberth Parent-Teachers' Association celebrated Founders' Day Monday evening and at the social hour following the meeting, a beautiful birthday cake and red, white and blue candles gave a festive air to the fortieth anniversary of the P. T. A.

The program was devoted to scouting. George A. Mahl, chairman of the Wynnewood Troop Committee, gave the invocation.

The salute to the flag was led by three cubs, Billy Griffiths, Dick Whiting and Ralph Viguers.

The Parent-Teachers' Chorus, led by Mrs. Drennen, sang two very pretty numbers.

Rex Gary, scout executive of Philadelphia, talked on "Scouting and Citizenship" giving as four essentials to citizenship: 1, character; 2, participation and practice; 3, education; 4, leadership and a system for producing it. He outlined the aim of the scout program to prepare for these essentials.

The audience sang "America the Beautiful" after which Miss Virginia Hughes of the Philadelphia Girl

Juniors Hear Address on China—Glassware

P. T. A. Chorus Pleases; Salvation Army Captain Speaks

Members and guests of the Junior Women's Community Club were delightfully entertained last Thursday by a program in charge of Mrs. Franklin Hutchinson, chairman of program. The Parent-Teachers' Association Chorus, introduced by Miss Jean Staples, chairman of music, was led by Mrs. W. J. Drennen in several beautifully interpreted numbers.

Captain G. Smith then presented a timely message for the Salvation Army Campaign.

The main feature was a talk on china and glassware by Mrs. M. G. McCormick, of an Ardmore store. Mrs. McCormick spoke at great length on the origin and history of china, showing an intimate love and understanding of her subject. The importance of pottery and china in tracing the rise and fall of empires was stressed. Refreshments were in charge of Miss Katharine Loughlin and her committee.

The Valentine dinner-dance at Merion Mansions on February 13 was enjoyed by a large number of the juniors in company with their husbands and escorts. Mrs. Glenn Williams, chairman of the affair, lent an added attraction by giving two door prizes which were won by Mrs. H. A. Thomson and Mrs. J. J. Skelton.

The Drama Committee, Mrs. Robert Conly, chairman, will present Mrs. Maroa Bailey, of Narberth, at the open meeting of the club on Thursday, February 25, at 8:30 P. M. Mrs. Bailey, well-known reader, will give excerpts from Noel Coward's one-act plays now running in New York. She will also give a short review of the current theatrical season in New York. The soloist of the evening will be Mrs. James Tilbury. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

"Holiday" High Point of Players Season

Comedy Gives Members of Cast Opportunity to Show Abilities

PRODUCTION EXCELLENT

Last Friday and Saturday evenings the Narberth Players presented their twenty-fourth production "Holiday" by Phillip Barry. This play was under the direction of Evelyn Dutton. It was her initial appearance in this capacity with this organization, and with the exception of certain staging gives us every reason to look forward with pleasant anticipation to her future productions.

The cast was as capable a one as has ever been selected by the players. The only comment was the selection of William Dougherty for the male lead. Bill gave a very creditable performance considering his experience, but it is felt that too much was expected of him. While his hesitancy at times slowed up the tempo of the play, he gave evidence of latent ability which should be developed more gradually.

The outstanding characterizations were rendered by Cecilia Link, Betty Lynch, George Werner and Robert Estes. The play was well received as was evidenced by the applause as certain performers made their exits. Judged by the relative volume of these expressions of approval, the high spot of the performance was Cecilia Link as Linda Seton in her final exit. Her development of this dramatic moment from the time she secures her sister's release of Johnny, through a clear-cut defiance of her stern father to her final words "Stop me, somebody, try and stop me" was as fine a display of breadth of talent as one could hope to see anywhere short of the professional stage. Mrs. Link's entire part was difficult and she got to the core of it.

Running a close second was Bob Estes, as Ned Seton, in his New Year's Eve portrayal of a crushed son becoming inebriated to the point of burying his sorrow caused by his father's money-mad ideas. Many delineations of the effects of intoxicating beverages are spoiled by over acting. But not this one.

Another clever potion was the recital of his life's history by Arthur McVickar as Nick Potter. The lines at this point were full of comedy and pathos. With the best use of facial expressions and gestures, Arthur drew out their full intent in this bit of horseplay in the New Year's Eve celebration. Mr. McVickar and his

Good Fishing Ahead for County Anglers

Bi-County Fish Warden Tells Rod and Gun Club of Plans

STRESS CONSERVATION

"Pennsylvania puts more fish into its streams than New York and California combined," H. Z. Cole, fish warden for Bucks and Montgomery Counties, told members of the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club Wednesday night at their meeting in the Legion Room of the Community Building, Narberth.

Mr. Cole also said that 57 cents of the fish license dollar goes for propagating streams. He outlined a program of the State Fish Commission to put bass in streams in Southeastern Pennsylvania and said that in five years this county should have fishing second to none in the State.

He advocated education of boys in sportsmanship, propagating ponds, planting of shade along streams and building of dams as means of conservation of fish. He expects to distribute 40,000 willow cuttings for planting this year.

At the business meeting, club members discussed various means of increasing the local game and fish supply and also the need of a nearby floor on which to practice fly casting.

The club indorsed a proposed $1 ocean fishing license on the New Jersey coast for the purpose of raising funds to better patrol the shore against commercial fishing raiders. The vote was not unanimous, several members holding the measure would not be effective.

The Spectator

The Public and the Parking Lots

Single-tax advocates should be able to make a strong case for their theory as a result of the numerous buildings which are being razed in the city center in order to save realty taxes, but you don't have to be a single-taxer to recognize the disregard of public interest and opinion which can be laid at the doors of those responsible. The general ugliness which is produced seems to bother them not at all and, in fact, they appear disposed to rub it in a bit, as they invariably lease their sorry sites to a man with an ugly (et gruesome) name and, if we remember the NRA days, the same man with the ugly name also has ugly ways, making quite a complete score of unpleasant aspects.

One of the worst eye-sores is at Eighth and Chestnut streets, where Green's Hotel stood for many years, and admitting that the old hostelry could no longer serve a modern public (a fact not granted as regards its unique dining rooms), it would seem that a trust company which had been befriended in a very particular way itself might have been disposed, as an expression of civic concern, to have erected in the place of the hotel an attractive "tax-payer." This should not be difficult, as the neighborhood is a highly important retail section and the revenue from good stores would probably serve to keep the property on a no-loss basis until a better market arrived.

Another spectacle is at Third and Chestnut streets, the site of the M. & M. Building, owned by no less than the opulent Girard Estate, from whom the people of Philadelphia have the right to expect a degree of imagination and enterprise which is not fulfilled by the mere destruction of the building and the rental of the lot to the aforesaid man with the ugly name.

For instance, would it be regarded as an extreme venture if the bull were taken by at least one horn and an experiment made with a moderate sized apartment house in the old section of the city? The idea of having a habitat from which one can "walk to work" is no longer novel, as witness the fancy places on Fifth avenue in New York, and it is said that the insurance companies are making some real plans for apartments to replace the deserted factory buildings in lower Manhattan around Greene, Mercer and Houston streets.

If you walk along Strawberry street, which runs from Market to Chestnut, between Second and Third, the windows of the upper stories will let you know that people once lived in the existent structures, and we know one lady who was born there eighty-six years ago. Everything a neighborhood needs is there aplenty, including quiet nights, the impelling old churches of practically every belief and, of course, the transportation is unexcelled. It seems inevitable that living quarters will again be restored to this hallowed section and the Girard Estate would hardly be criticized if it used some of its plethora for the first step of the reconstructive journey.

Coming back to the Eighth and Chestnut streets site, we wonder if a real restaurant could not be made to pay there, or aren't there enough people of old-time taste and extra-critical of food and environment to warrant the existence of at least one choice place in Philadelphia? We go on rec-

Main Lines

A network of Democratic clubs throughout the county is being planned, it was announced this week by Wellington H. Rosenberry, Jr., vice-chairman of the County Democratic Committee.

A petition by Bryn Mawr College officials asking that Merion avenue, between Yarrow street and Gulph road, be closed to traffic, has been denied by the Lower Merion Commissioners.

Maxwell Strawbridge, Norristown attorney, has been named Montgomery County Solicitor, the post held by the late W. Russell Green, of Narberth. Mr. Strawbridge's former post as assistant solicitor is now vacant.

Matthew H. McCloskey, Jr.'s, contracting company is one of the successful bidders in the $58,000,000 electrification program of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. McCloskey, said to have been given the lion's share of the work, is 44 and co-leader with John B. Kelly, of Philadelphia's Democrats. He lives in Overbrook.

Health Officer Marvin E. Reynolds reported twenty-two new cases of contagious disease in Lower Merion last week: Chicken pox, 10; mumps, 8; whooping cough, 2; scarlet fever, 2.

Narberth's relief cases remained the same last week, 7; Lower Merion's families on the dole decreased from sixty to fifty-eight.

Have you applied for your 1937 driver's license? February 28 midnight is the deadline for using the present operator's cards.

Winner of the annual safety award in the Bell Telephone Company's Eastern Pennsylvania territory from ten other districts is the Main Line district, headed by Donald M. Huber, district manager.

Pony is Theatre Prize

Interest among the younger folk is centering around the announcement of the Narberth Theatre that a pony and saddle will be given away at the playhouse on March 22.

ord as claiming there is not one such place now, and if we are challenged we will yearn to be enlightened. Where can you go where you will not be confronted by the abominable table d'hôte, and what place is it where they will not inflict a "platter" on you if you don't stop them? Where can you get a steak in Philadelphia which will vie with what Helen Gallagher broils over the hickory on Fifty-second street near Broadway, even admitting that you are dinned to death as the penalty for eating at Helen's? Where is left a sense of leisure, a routine of calm, decorous ritual for the entire meal, and a long list from which to select, not merely the carte "entrees" which appear on the "special dinners," God forgive them!

As boys and girls we used to troop down to Green's for the good food which was there (the boys couldn't smoke in the "ladies' dining room") and after that we continued to go, because it was still good, no end of everything, and so well established was the Philadelphia habit of going to Green's, and so indifferent is the average club and cafe food these days, that we now offer the resolution that the trust company which was helped so considerably by Philadelphia may now help Philadelphia by erecting a building fit for an excellent restaurant on the site which once was Green's.

sister, Marion, in this their first appearance before our little theatre group were very impressive and we look forward to seeing them often and in more important roles.

Betty Lynch as Julia Seton, was so smooth and natural that her performance was almost professional. Her technique was without a flaw.

Bessie McAllister in her first appearance gives great performance of holding up the dramatic reputation of this family so ably started by her husband, George.

Elmer Hackman, Richard Gable, Adelaide Thomas and Bill Duncan, the last three in their initial appearance, rendered very pleasing performances.

George Suplee, Jack Clarke, Rodger Burns and Myrtle Harnden are to be congratulated on the excellent scenery and properties which added much to the atmosphere. The make-up, in charge of Paul Goodyear, was very deftly done.

Both Narberth Quintets Capture League Battles

Called in as a substitute after Hen Soleiac had been banned from the game, lanky Dave Aiken made the field goal that decided the game Monday night at Brookline for Narberth against the Haverford Aces, 29-27. Russ Herrmann was a tower of strength with three field goals and as many foul tosses and especially with his passing.

The same evening Eck Burgess led his "B's" to a 28-19 victory over St. Katharine's.

Both teams are leading their respective leagues.

This Thursday evening at the Penn Wynne School Narberth "A" was scheduled to meet Rosemont.

"I'M ALWAYS LOOKING FOR TROUBLE!"

"That's my job—to find trouble on your telephone line before you find it. You see, I'm a Test Man in a telephone central office. It's my job to find trouble before it troubles you! Switches and dials tell me what and where trouble may hit. Then I send a repairman to fix it. Very often we can catch it before it affects your service and you never realize that there has been trouble on your line!"

We telephone people spend a lot of time and money to keep your service free from mechanical failures. But some people have telephone troubles of another kind. They waste time and effort—even lose sales and customers—due to inadequate telephone facilities or the wrong equipment to meet the needs of office, home, store or factory. Why not let us study your telephone problems and check your facilities? There's no obligation. Just call the Business Office.

Members of Newly Organized Committee

OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Sheriff Edwin H. Bellis, of Jenkintown, was selected chairman of the Executive Committee of the Montgomery County Republican organization at a meeting held recently in Norristown.

Two Republican leaders from this section have been selected to serve as members of the committee with M.
Bellis.

They are Peter C. Hess, treasurer and tax collector of Lower Merion Township, and Mrs. John Y. Huber,
Jr., president of the Lower Merion
Narberth Council of Republican Women.

Other members are Edward Foulke,
Ambler attorney; Julian W. Barnard,
Walter Wilson, Miss Nancy Highley, County Treasurer R. Ronald Dettre, all of Norristown; Lloyd Johnson, Roxford publisher.

One of the first moves of the committee will be to open a permanent headquarters for Republicans in Norristown. Policies and affairs of the party will be directed from this headquarters.

Following his selection to head the Republican organization, Sheriff Bellis announced that other names, including women, will be added to the committee in the future.

party at the home of Mrs. James B.
Smith, on Avon road, Thursday.

The Literature Group will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Middleton, 5 Shirley road. Mrs. Henry Dever will be the co-hostess.

Mrs. C. Arley Farmer will review
Shining Scabbard by Hutchinson.

The Home Department will meet at the home of Mrs. William Levis, on Hampden avenue, February 25.

The Board of Directors will meet next Tuesday at the home of the president, Mrs. Ralph C. Heath, on Shirley road.

Dr. Edward M. Westburgh will speak at the March 2 meeting on "Character and Personality Development." This program will be in charge of the Education Department, with Mrs. S. C. Campbell as hostess.

Haverford High's court aggregation met the immovable object last Tuesday night when they played Lower Merion in the return game of the league season. The Anderson-men took things easy and loafed away to a 30 to 12 victory, holding the Red and Gold basketballers to four field goals and a like number of fouls.

Cheltenham will be met tonight on the local's court and Norristown will be the opposition away from home next week. These league affairs will wind up the basketball season for Lower Merion before entering the play-offs for the State tournament.

Abe Ramsey, the long lad who has been showing a great deal in a basketball way the past three weeks, proved to be the big Bertha in the Haverford contest. His five field goals and one charity toss gave him high scoring honors with eleven points. Ray Beck played his usual good game, scoring seven points and doing a fine job defensively. Merritt Lentz played his first game since he became sick a couple of weeks ago and in the final quarter stole the show with his splendid passing. During his short stay in the game the star of last year's aggregation had four assists on snappy passes while he contributed some excellent floor work.

Looking forward to the Suburban eliminations for the State tournament, it looks as if Chester would be the Maroon's opponent in the first game.
Coatesville will be lining up against the other league division; so the local fans may expect to see a return engagement against the Chester County champions. Coatesville turned in a victory over Lower Merion before the Christmas holidays, and it will give Anderson an opportunity to show what a season's work with his boys has developed.

Coatesville has a snappy ball club,
but if the Maroon is in full strength when they meet again, they will be running into a combination as strong as any ever to represent the Main Line School. Beginning with the Catholic High game at the Arena, Bill Anderson's boys have been playing phenomenal basketball. No team that he has ever coached at Lower Merion has played better ball than the present one during the past three weeks. Ramsey and Beck have shown the most improvement during that time. Viguers and Griffiths have added considerably to the team's scoring strength, and Coach Bill has Lentz and several others who can be dependent upon to give good service as substitutes.

The Lower Merion Junior High five won their thirteenth game out of fourteen starts Tuesday afternoon, when they subdued the Haverford High five for the second time this season, by a score of 32 to 13. The splendid playing of the two guards, Farrell and Green, was responsible for the good showing of the Leopards.
Captain Jack Ryan shared honors with Green for high scoring. Each had nine points. The team has been handicapped most of the season without the services of Leonard Jones, ace forward. Jones took part in five games playing an average of ten minutes a game and contributed forty points. It is doubtful if he will be able to play again this year.

The Junior High five will enter the Montgomery County Junior High tournament beginning on March 8 and
